

2009 DEUTSCHE BANK CHAMPIONSHIP

2009 was a Deutsche Bank Championship that went right until the final hole. Steve Stricker's birdies on 17 and 18 during Monday's final round was just enough to beat Jason Dufner, who was right with Stricker all week. This was Steve Stricker's third victory in 2009 which boosted him to second in the World Golf Ranking at the time, this win also meant that Stricker moved to first in the FedEx Cup Standings passing Tiger Woods.
